The Diocesan Commission for Sport will receive CVs and short proposals (maximum 1,000 words) outlining how sport and leisure activities (highlighting various creative ways of sharing the Gospel) can be included in a formation programme as an evangelisation channel in children and youth ministry.

The ideal service provider must be in possession of:

- Strong communication skills, both verbal and written in Maltese and English.
- Excellent interpersonal and organisational skills.
- Knowledge in the teaching of the Catholic Church.
- Clean driving licence and police conduct.

The service provider would be expected to offer his/her services as explained above including the administrative work involved, mostly in schools or other public places, for a number of fixed hours against payment.

Interested persons are to submit the following to info.kds@maltadiocese.org by not later than 3 May 2024:

- A proposal (see above)
- A detailed CV
- A scanned copy of certificates
- Name and email address of two referees.

The Diocesan Commission for Sport may refuse the most advantageous and what seems as the most promising offer.

Late submissions will not be considered.

“Sport is a means to express one’s talents, but also to build society. Sport, in fact, teaches us the value of fraternity. We are not islands: on the pitch, where a person comes from, their language and culture do not matter. What counts is the commitment and the common goal.” – Pope Francis, 2024.
